

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, September 25. 1706.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Sept. 25.

From the Camp at Weiffembourg, Sept. 16.

SOME Days ago the Marshal de Villars was inform'd, that the Enemy had taken a Review of their Army, and were on the March towards Philipsbourg under the Command of General Thungen, with Design to pass the Rhine and come and attack our Lines. He was inform'd at the same Time, that they had left a pretty considerable Body commanded by General Erffa to guard the Lines of Stolhoffen and the Intrenchments which they have made over against Fort Louis and the Island Marquisar, and that the said General was getting together on that side a great Number of Boats, in order to attempt to pass the Rhine. Upon this Intelligence the Marshal de Villars view'd all the Posts along that River, from Offendorf below Strasbourg to Lauterbourg: He left 12 Battallions and 15 Squadrons under the Command of the Marquis de Hautefort Lieutenant General, and of the Marquis de Vieuxpont and the Sieur de Dourches Majors General, to oppose General Erffa if he should attempt to pass the Rhine. Which done he repair'd the 13th Instant to Lauterbourg, where he learnt that a Party detach'd by the Marquis de Broglie had beaten one of the Enemy's, and taken several Prisoners, who reported that the Enemy had pass'd the Rhine at Philipsbourg, and were encamp'd at Germersheim. The 14th he came to this Camp, whence with a Body of Horse he went to get Intelligence of the Enemy, and advanc'd to Candel, where he saw them arrive. He caus'd a Detachment of 2000 Horse which they had sent out likewise for Intelligence, to be charg'd, and they were driven back to their Camp. They give out they will come and attack our Lines, where all is ready for giving them a good Reception. Yesterday the Marshal de Villars detach'd the Sieur Chevry Lieutenant Colonel of the King's Hussars, to inform himself of the Motions of the Enemy. He met a Party of 100 Horse Dragoons or Hussars, which he defeated, beating them back to the Guards of their Camp, and brought off the Lieutenant Colonel of the Regiment of Colonitsch and several others Prisoners. They reported that the Enemy continued at Candel: Which gives us Ground to conjecture, that they design only to put a Convoy into Landau.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Sept. 23.

Francfort, Sept. 22. The Imperial Army on the Upper-Rhine is now encamp'd near Hagenbach: A Bridge laid over the Rhine at Daxland was finish'd 2 Days ago, so that there is a free Communication between the Army under General Thungen and the Troops commanded by General Erffa in the Lines of Stolhoffen. The Marshal de Villars has posted himself with the Gros of his Army between the Lines of Lauterbourg and Croonweissenbourg, and has made proper Dispositions for the Defence of these Lines, which General Thungen still threatens to attack.

sent from Milan by the Prince of Vaudemont to inform the King, that having drawn out Part of the Garrisons of the Places in the Milanese, he had made up a Body sufficient to guard against the Enemy the Passages of the Ticino, a River that falls into the Po below Pavia. Since the Arrival of a Courier from Spain, a Report is spread that the Enemy have actually decamp'd to retire into the Kingdom of Valencia; and that the Duke of Berwick has detach'd 3000 Horse and Foot to follow them.
